Faraday is looking for Network Engineer and System Engineer Interns to build the next-generation WiFi experience. You'll be part of a world-class team who is working to develop products for managing wireless networks and turning them into marketing and data analytics solutions.

Job Description

- Working under the direction of more experienced System Engineer and Network Engineer.
- Collaborating with product teams.
- Working on Cloud Network and Wireless Network Access Designs.
- Setup and configuration of network services like DHCP, Radius.
- Developing scripts / applications to automate system tasks.
- Setup and Maintenance of internal services and servers.
- Setup and Maintenance of devops tools.

Knowledge & Skills & Abilities

Education/Experience:

- Must be enrolled and pursuing a Bachelor's degree in 3rd or 4th year of Computer Engineering, Computer Science, Electronics and Communication Engineering, Mathematics, or similar.

Required:

- Desire to make a career in this domain.
- Should be able to work 3 business days a week.
- Proficiency in spoken and written English.
- Result oriented, can-do-attitude.
- Ability to proactively resolve problems.
- Learning on the fly.
- Self-development.
- Interpersonal communication skills and the ability to coordinate.

Optional:

- Basic Computer Networking concepts.
- Basic knowledge of Linux based OSes.
- Basic SQL knowledge.
- Knowledge in a programming language.

We ask applicants to send an email to careers@faradaynetworks.com including their CV with subject "Network & System Engineer Intern".