```
-=--=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-
     From: Curtis <lists@aimlink.name>
     Date: Sunday, March 19, 2006 6:36:0
       To: Goncalo Farias on TBBETA <tbb
Mod: HTML use
-=--=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-
On 19/3/2006 at 7:14:49 AM [GMT -0500]

> I use text emails 90% of the time.

HTML mail is not necessary. However, t inappropriate use that leads to the di abuse of use is inevitable and far mor banning HTML use. The latter decision avoids complicating list management, a mail. The list runs just fine without without using it.

  --

    -= Curtis =-
The Bat!☐ v3.72.04 (Beta) / http://spe
PGPKey: http://rsakey.aimlink.name
..."I've noticed that the press tends they're writing on a subject I know sc

Part.txt
```
```
-=--=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-
```

-=--=

-=

On 19/3/2006 at 7:14:49 AM [GMT -0500], Goncalo Farias wrote:

> I use text emails 90% of the time.

HTML mail is not necessary. However, there is potential for abuse and inappropriate use that leads to the discomfort of many readers. This abuse of use is inevitable and far more difficult to control than simply banning HTML use. The latter decision is that much easier since it avoids complicating list management, and it's so easy to do without HTML mail. The list runs just fine without it and all members can manage without using it.

--
   -= Curtis =-
The Bat!☐ v3.72.04 (Beta) / http://specs.aimlink.name
PGPKey: http://rsakey.aimlink.name
..."I've noticed that the press tends to be quite accurate, except when they're writing on a subject I know something about." (Keith F. Lynch)

Part.txt
-=--=